MAN HUNT IS SWITCHED TO EAST OF CITY

Report Reaches Prison That Two Men Were Seen Walking on Red Trail

LID CLAMPED DOWN

Firm Hand Shown by Warden Lee; Everything Turned Toward Capturing Men

The man hunt for two convicts who escaped from the state penitentiary here Sunday night switched today from Mandan and vicinity to east of Bismarck, following reports that two men had been seen walking on the Red Trail east of Bismarck between 3 and 4 o'clock this morning. The report which came from an autoist, caused a net to be spread over the country around Driscoll and Sterling without result at noon today. The description of the autoist gave him with that of the escaped men.

Another report was that the men were seen three and a half miles southwest of Mandan yesterday, and prison officials believe it is possible they may have doubled back.

The two men at liberty, Arthur Smith and William Burghman, probably have money in their pockets to aid them, prison officials say.

There will be no let up at present in the man hunt, Warden Lee said.

Gave Up Money.

His leg broken in a fall when he and the other convicts scaled the walls of the penitentiary, John Longre, 22-year-old youth, gave his two confederates $25 he had in his pocket and waved them a "good-bye" and good luck in their dash for freedom, he told the chief keeper of the prison, Warden J. J. Lee said last night.

Longre, however, refused to divulge to the warden under a grilling how he and the others planned the escape or whether any other convicts were involved in it. He was suffering badly from a broken left ankle, sustained when he dropped from the end of a wire projected by the convicts beyond the 27-foot brick wall. He hobbled a little ways but was forced to give up his attempt to escape and was captured shortly after the dash was made last night.

Longre, too, stood a good chance of getting a pardon or parole within a few months, according to a member of the pardon board. He was serving a sentence for highway robbery from Ward county.

"I am not sure that Longre is telling the truth about the money," said Warden Lee. "But if he had $25 it was passed to him by someone from the outside."

Clamps Down Lid.

The warden clamped down the lid temporarily on moving picture shows which entertain the 250 convicts in the prison twice a week, as a result of the escape. The twine plant was closed today because every available man was on the man hunt, but will be opened tomorrow.

Prison guards traced Arthur Smith, also known as Harry Smith and H. A. Williams, and William Burghman to Mandan, and a net was spread for them. The men are believed to have at first gone into the woods along the Missouri river and then started for Mandan, hoping to catch a train. Warden Lee expressed confidence tonight they would be captured within 24 hours.

Warden Lee said last night he did not believe any prisoners were implicated in the escape plot except the trio, and he places chief blame on Burghman, who was working in the butcher shop and provided the tools which aided the convicts to scale the walls.

"LET THERE BE LIGHT," SAYS BODY SETTLING HUGHES-HELLSTROM SCRAP

Hellstrom said: "I have no light." Hughes said: "There won't be any light."

The state railroad commission said: "Let there be light." And presumably the Hughes Electric company will obey the order and there will be light. The quarrel started over $5. But before it was concluded by the railroad commission's decision today nearly a day's testimony has been taken, with three commissioners, a stenographer, and two attorneys present and today the commission issued a five-page opinion on the subject.

It began this way. F. O. Hellstrom occupied a two-room apartment at 2121-2 Sixth street, and he desired light to read the cases against the Hughes Electric company, or perhaps want the Hughes Electric company had to say about him. So he got light on the meter of a garage company. But the garage man sold out.

Then, about September 7, said Hellstrom went to the Hughes company and asked that a meter be installed and he tendered the regular $5 meter deposit required of all patrons.

But William T. Kraft told him, so Hellstrom said in his suit, that he'd have to put up $10 instead of $5. They didn't consider him "a safe risk because of past experience," the rotund office manager said, so the story of the case reads.

Hellstrom wasn't going to part with the extra $5. He'd been in scraps with the same utility before and he knew the rules, he thought. So he went to a bank, deposited $5 and asked the bank to notify the company the meter deposit was there. The paltry $5 didn't attract, apparently, and the company never took the money.

So Hellstrom brought a case before the railroad commission. But in the meantime another party took over the garage and Hellstrom began getting light on their meter.

The case wasn't ended, however. "The commission cannot construe this as a moot case for the reason that the complainant requests that service be furnished him through a meter installed at his apartment," said the decision issued today.

Then it proceeds to say that the utility can't act arbitrarily, and if it had any doubt about whether it would get its money from Hellstrom, it ought to have gone before the railroad commission first. Hellstrom gets his service and saves the $5, the utility finds out it couldn't take $5 from one consumer more than it required of another and the taxpayers and consumers eventually will get a nice little bill for lawyers' fees of the utility and expenses of the railroad commission.

Des Moines, Ia., Jan. 8.—A local newspaper interviewed members of the Iowa legislature in session here yesterday on their attitude toward the winning Bok peace plan.

"Senator," one legislator was asked, "what do you think of the Bok peace plan?"

The Senator looked up blankly a moment and then rose to the emergency.

"Oh," he exclaimed, "I wasn't here when they passed that."

Sumpter, S. C., Jan. 8.—Mrs. Lou China has confessed that she shot and killed her husband, Dr. Archie China, prominent physician and banker, Sunday morning according to a statement made to officers here today. Mrs. China was quoted by Dr. Stuckey as saying in her confession which was made last night, but news of which was not made public until today. She did not give details of the tragedy, however, he said. The physicians characterize the apparent unconscious state in which Mrs. China inquired yesterday as a form of malingering, asserting that she had not taken poison as was first reported.

BERGER BOUND OVER, CHARGED WITH MURDER

Man Who Admitted Slaying Two at Jamestown Indicates Robbery a Motive

DRAWN TO SCENE

Had Returned to Place Where Bodies Lay Many Times After the Murder

Jamestown, Jan. 8.—A preliminary hearing was given Joe Berger, confessed slayer of two unknown men here, before Justice Frank Kellogg here last night and he was ordered bound over to district court on a charge of first degree murder without bail.

Berger told his story of the crime and established the date of the murder as Sunday night, August 21, and the first names of the victims as "Christ" and "Jim." He didn't know the last names. His story indicated robbery may have been the great motive for the crime.

"Christ" and "Jim" quit work on Frank Fletcher's threshing rig on Friday before the murder, on Sunday and Berger came to Jamestown with them and loitered around pool hall. One of the other men went out and got a bottle of booze, Berger didn't know where, he said, he only drinks a little occasionally on holidays. Berger says that each of the men had a roll of money.

They went to the straw pile that night to sleep. He returned to the Fletcher farm Sunday morning and did his chores, after hearing the men expected to return to the straw stack. At nightfall he took the iron pump handle from a scrap pile at Fletcher's slipped it inside his pants, "eg, tying a string at the knee to hold it, and carried it to the straw stack where he hid it. He returned to the Fletcher farm for supper and late that night came back, took his weapon from its hiding place and committed the murder.

Following the murder he returned to the Fletcher farm where he worked several days and then came to Jamestown, loafing a couple of days, finally going out to Fred Fried's farm at Spiritwood where he worked at a mechanic. He identified a pocket book found near the scene of the crime and went over other details of the crime. It is not known when he will be brought to Bismarck to serve his sentence.

SAY NEGROES CONFESS MANY AX SLAYINGS

Court Held in Jail in Birmingham, Alabama, Will Get Speedy Trials

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 8.—Speedy trials for the four negroes held in the county jail in connection with Birmingham's long list of ax attacks were promised Monday by Solicitor Jim Davis.

He revealed that the persons were indicted by the grand jury 10 days ago and that the indictments charge murder. Partial confessions have been obtained from the negroes, and investigators have been given information that is expected to lead quickly to additional arrests.

The negroes in custody, in the belief of Solicitor Davis, are leaders of an organized "ax syndicate" that operated here for more than three years, attacking 44 persons and killing 24 of them.

Details of the arrest of the negroes and of methods used in obtaining statements from them were disclosed Sunday night by Sheriff Shirley. He declared that no physical methods were employed to make them talk but that "considerable mental pressure was brought."

According to Solicitor Davis the ax gang held secret meetings and planned attacks. In some instances straws were drawn to decide which of the negroes would actually wield the instrument, he said.

INSURGENTS IN SENATE CHANGE THEIR SUPPORT

Vote for Senator Couzens of Michigan to Head I. C. C. Committee

SMITH VOTE SHORT

Deadlock Continues and Senate Again Turns Its Attention to Oratory

Washington, Jan. 8.—(By the A. P.) Taxes, the soldiers' bonus, farm aid and Russia were subjects to which Congress gave its attention today either in debate on the floor or in committee.

Having failed to break the deadlock over the chairmanship of the Interstate Commerce Committee yesterday the senate faced a renewal of the contest but with little prospect of a decision.

Taxes and the bonus were the combined subjects of a prepared address by Senator Couzens, Democrat, New York, after the transaction of the usual routine business in the morning. Rep. Beedy, Republican, Maine, had been given time for a discussion of Russia, a subject which occupied the senate much of the time yesterday and which promises to provide further and more extended debate later. The house ways and means committee continued today its work on the administrative provisions of the Mellon tax plan while awaiting the party conference of house Republicans on the question of whether a bonus measure is to be reported ahead of tax revision. Agricultural relief was the subject of public hearings before the senate and house agricultural committees with representative of farmers' organizations appearing before each. Both committees had before them the Morris-Sinclair farm purchasing and selling corporation which was approved yesterday by witnesses before the senate committee.

The agricultural situation was also the subject of an address in the house by Rep. Leavitt, Republican, Montana.

TALK FARM LEGISLATION

Washington, Jan. 8.—Farm legislation was considered today by both the senate and house agriculture committees with representatives in various sections appearing as witnesses.

General approval was given to the Morris-Sinclair bill proposing creation of $100,000,000 corporation to purchase American farm products and to sell them both at home and abroad. It was argued that such purchases would have the effect of both increasing and stabilizing prices.

Early action on legislation pertaining to the grazing of livestock on ranges of the national forests was forecast today as a result of the conference between Secretary Wallace and senators and representatives from western states. Owing to the depressed condition of the livestock industry range states, Secretary Wallace feels there should be no advance in the grazing fees until conditions in the country warrant and it is not likely there will be any increase until the grazing season of 1925.

COOLIDGE MEN GET BUSY ON SUPPORT DRIVE

SOLDIER BONUS BILL WILL GET EARLY HEARING

Conference of House of Representatives, Republicans Points the Way For It

TO SHELVE TAX BILL?

Senator Copeland of New York Proposes Payment of Bonus in 75 Years Time

Washington, Jan. 8.—A show down of house Republicans on the soldier's bonus was assured today with the calling of a formal conference Thursday night for discussion of the question. The call, sent out by Rep. Anderson of Minnesota, chairman of the conference was so worded to permit consideration of taxation and other pending legislation.

With former service men in the house pressing for action on the bonus before the end of the month the Republican organization redoubled its efforts to keep the Mellon tax bill from being displaced on the tentative legislation program. The Republican leaders want the ways and means committee to complete the consideration of the tax bill before taking up the bonus, but the soldiers' blue intends to introduce at the conference a resolution instructing the committee to lose no time reporting the bonus bill.

COPELAND FOR IT

Washington, Jan. 8.—Charging that Secretary Mellon had "attempted to sandbag the bonus using a formidable weapon, the pocketbook of the nation," Senator Copeland, Democrat of New York, told the senate today he did not consider tax reduction and the soldier's bonus "so related that one must die if the other lives."

Pointing out that the treasury secretary said in the long run the surtax reduction which he had promised would bring an estimated increase of $102,000,000 annual revenue, Senator Copeland proposed this be used in paying the bonus. Favoring cash payments to all service men at the rate of $1.25 for each day of service, Senator Copeland said that the total of $1,450,777,263 could be retired in 60 years with a payment of $100,000,000 yearly, $75,000,000 in interest and $25,000,000 in principal. Should the additional revenue Mr. Mellon promised not be realized the senator said, the surtax would be restored "because the men must be paid."

BAN ON ARMS' SHIPMENTS TO MEXICO MADE

Brings Bill From Democratic Floor Leader Prohibiting Any Arms Sales by U. S.

PRESIDENT IS FIRM

Prohibits Shipment of Any Munitions by Private Citizens to Rebels

New York, Jan. 8.—Officers of the Pan American Petroleum and Transport Company today announced that the Mexican rebels had taken possession of its fields at Tierra Blanca and Chapapote. Nunez, Wells and pipe lines have been shut down, the statement said, and no oil is coming from those fields.

Washington, Jan. 8.—(By the A. P.) President Coolidge's Mexican policy which resulted yesterday in an arms embargo directed against the De La Huerta revolutionists was assailed from Democratic quarters in the senate today.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic floor leader, presented a bill which would prohibit under heavy penalty the sale of munitions to foreign governments either by the United States or by private parties.

While the measure did not mention the recent sale by the United States of surplus war material to the Mexican government under President Obregon it was explained by the author that it was drawn with that incident in view.

BANS SHIPMENTS

Washington, Jan. 8.—President Coolidge took further steps to aid the Obregon government in Mexico last night, signing a proclamation which imposed an immediate embargo on any shipments of war munitions to that country except with the specific approval of the government. A fine of $10,000 or two years imprisonment or both may be imposed upon convicted violators of the embargo.

The Proclamation

"Whereas, section one of a joint resolution of congress, entitled a 'joint resolution to prohibit the exportation of arms or munitions of war from the United States to certain countries, and for other purposes,' approved January 31, 1922, provide as follows:

"That whenever the president finds that in any American country, or in any country in which the United States exercises territorial jurisdiction, conditions of domestic violence exist, which are or may be promoted by the use of arms or munitions of war procured from the United States, and makes proclamation thereof, it shall be unlawful to export, except under such limitations and exceptions as the president prescribes, any arms or munitions of war from any place in the United States to such country until otherwise ordered by the president or by congress."

"And whereas, it is provided by section two of the said resolution that 'whoever exports any arms or munitions of war in violation of section one shall, on conviction, be punished by fine not exceeding $10,000, or by imprisonment not exceeding two years, or both.'"

Declares Situation

"Now therefore, I, Calvin Coolidge, president of the United States of America acting under and by virtue of the authority conferred in me by the said joint resolution of congress, do hereby declare and proclaim that I have found that there exists in Mexico such conditions of domestic violence which are or may be promoted by the use of arms or munitions of war procured from the United States as contemplated by the said joint resolution; and I do hereby admonish all citizens of the United States and every person who shall, on conviction, be punished by fine not exceeding $10,000, or by imprisonment not exceeding two years, or both."

"And I do hereby enjoin upon all officers of the United States, charged with the execution of the laws thereof, the utmost diligence in preventing violations of the said joint resolution and this my proclamation issued thereunder, and in bringing to trial and punishment any offenders against the same."

"And I do hereby prescribe as an exception and limitation to the foregoing restrictions such exportation of arms or munitions of war as are approved by the government of the United States, and such arms and munitions for industrial or commercial uses as may from time to time be exported with the consent of the secretary of state."

FIRE DAMAGES CAR

Kindred, N. D., Jan. 8.—Fire of mysterious origin badly damaged the auto belonging to Albert Harris, mail carrier. Flames broke out shortly after the car had been put in the garage, and were not put out until the top and upholstery were destroyed. No insurance was carried.

HOLDS STATE NOT CAUSE OF TAX INCREASE

Commissioner Converse Says State Levy Falls While Others Increase

SHOWS DISTRIBUTION

Soldiers' Bonus Big Part of Tax Levy in the Last Few Years, He Says

The general state government is not to be held responsible for the big increase in the tax levy in 1923, Commissioner Converse says today. He says that the levy was a result of the distribution of the tax levy in 1923, which was lower than that of 1922 by 26.61 percent.

During the five years, 1919 to 1923, inclusive, the state levy of approximately $1,000,000 in general property taxes, and $1,000,000 of this amount, the soldiers' bonus is accounted for $1,000,000 in round numbers. The industrial and farm loan interest is responsible for $1,000,000, the old state bonds are responsible for $2,000,000, leaving a total of general fund levies of $2,000,000 out of a total of $2,000,000.

The itemized statement for the years 1919 to 1923 shows:

General fund levy	$1,000,000
State bond sinking	234,137.57
State bond interest	17,995.64
Industrial loan interest	1,000,000.00
Levies, total	1,252,035.21
Soldiers' bonus	5,658,764.49

Of the state taxes levied by the state board of equalization in 1923, nearly 50 percent will be expended for purposes other than the ordinary expenses of state government. Mr. Converse said: "Stating it in another way, of each dollar collected from the 1923 state levy, there will be paid out for state bonds and the interest thereon seventeen and a fraction cents, for soldiers' bonus twenty-seven and a fraction cents, for education, including state institutions and state aid to schools, twenty and a fraction cents, for public and charitable institutions, eleven and a fraction cents, a total of 52 cents and one-half for those four purposes, to which is to be added one cent and three mills for the deficit in the home business association, leaving fifteen cents and seven mills of each dollar to be applied to the expenses of the legislature, judicial, executive and administrative departments."

During Mr. Converse's term, when the soldiers' bonus is finally paid, there will be a substantial reduction in state taxes. It may easily be that with the return of better times, with fewer delinquencies in farm loan interest, the levy for interest on state bonds can be made less. No substantial reduction in expenditures for penal and charitable institutions is to be anticipated. As already suggested, it seems likely that the added revenue after this year from the old tax and the income tax will make a further decrease in the state levy.

Mr. Converse pointed out that the state levy is the smallest and that reduction in taxation is largely a local problem. He gave the general property taxes in 1923 among the following:

State levy	1,000,000
County levies	2,000,000
Township levies	500,000
City, village levies	750,000
School district levies	11,750,000

The taxation situation of the last session of the legislature, Mr. Converse declared, did not affect the surplus of the total number of taxing districts as provided by law.

LODGE STRIKES AT RUSSIA IN SENATE SPEECH

Chairman of Foreign Relations Committee Opposes Any Recognition

WOULD BE BIG CHANCE

Says Soviet Officials Under Diplomatic Cloak Could Seek to Undermine U. S.

Washington, Jan. 7.—The administration's policy of non-recognition of the present Soviet government of Russia was supported vigorously today in the senate by Senator Lodge, Republican leader and chairman of the foreign relations committee.

Quoting extensively from public records and documents to show the interlocking of the Soviet government and the Communist international, Senator Lodge also brought additional evidence to the support of Secretary Hughes' contention that officials of the Soviet government are a party, through the Communist international, to revolutionary propaganda in the United States aimed at the overthrow of the American government.

"In my judgment," he said, in summarizing his argument, "it is no time to give the Soviet government of Russia the official recognition and approval of the United States and invite official representatives to come under us, and under the diplomatic shield seek to break up our own labor organizations, attack American laws and American freedom and kindle the flame of riot and disorder throughout our country."

"Obsta principles is an ancient and wise rule never heeded here at this moment when we are asked to give recognition not to a people or country but to a government—an active, insidious enemy working under our flag against all the beliefs and institutions which Americans hold most precious."

Reading a carefully prepared address of upwards of 30,000 words, Senator Lodge announced that his arguments contained "no secret or anonymous report of any kind" and that he addressed himself solely to the proposition contained in the resolution of Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, that the senate declare in favor of the recognition of the present Soviet government.

FARGO, N.D., Jan. 7.—Reduced railroad fares have been secured for the farmers, grainmen and businessmen who will attend the twenty-fifth annual Tri-State Grain Growers Convention in Fargo, January 16-17.

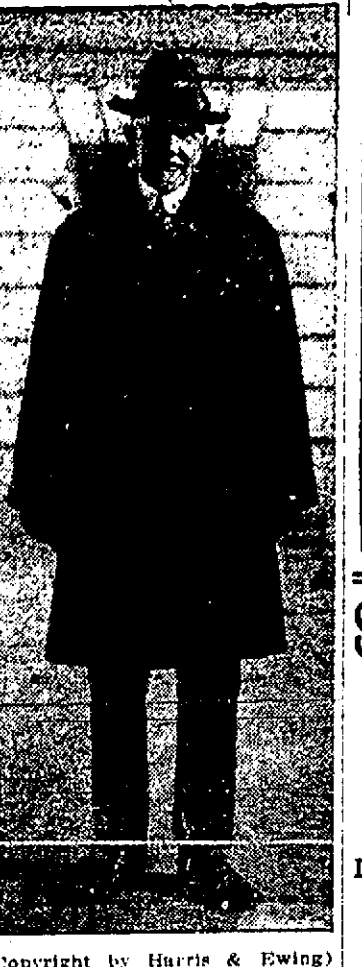

Mr. W. C. Palmer, secretary of the Tri-State Grain Growers Association, the convention will open Wednesday morning, January 16, at 9:30, with an address by Dr. John Lee Coulter, president of the North Dakota Agricultural college, and president of the association.

Dr. Coulter's address will consist largely of a detailed explanation of the Coulter plan of accelerated diversification. This plan is now drafted in the bill which is now proposed to Congress by representatives of the northwest.

In addition to Dr. Coulter's address the program of Wednesday, January 16, will also consist of addresses by agricultural leaders on various subjects. Among these will be a talk on "Commodity Co-operative Organization," by C. M. Morgan, Fargo.

The morning of January 17 will be devoted to the illustrated lectures, B. Byron Bobb, Hayner, North Dakota, who is called the alfalfa king of western North Dakota, will give an illustrated lecture on alfalfa, and Dr. H. L. Walster, agronomist of the North Dakota Agricultural college, will speak on sweet clover. These two lectures will be given in the State Theater, Fargo.

Thursday afternoon will be given to discussion on livestock raising and dairying. W. C. Peters of the Minnesota college of agriculture will address the convention on beef cattle and hogs. In addition to the lectures already listed by the officers of the association, the program will be added to by other addresses on agricultural subjects.

Mr. Gillett is now serving his third term as Speaker of the House of Representatives, having been re-elected practically by a unanimous vote of the Republican members of the House. His selection is popular both with Republicans and Democrats, the Democratic leader of the House referring to him as "a robust partisan, but a gentlemanly one."

The officers of the Tri-State Grain Growers' Convention for the present year are Dr. John Lee Coulter, president; Gordon W. Randlett, vice-president; W. C. Palmer, secretary. Several of the farm organizations are planning on holding their annual meeting at the same time as the present annual meeting of the Tri-State association. Among these are the Equity Co-operative Exchange, the Farm Managers' Association, and the North Dakota Wool Growers' Association. The Equity opens its program on Tuesday, January 15.

Johnson to Speak
Senator Magnus Johnson, Mr. James Mahan of St. Paul, and Paul P. Moore, West Branch, Iowa, are among the speakers who will appear on the Equity program. It was announced today by officers of the Equity association.

Meetings of the Tri-State Grain Growers' convention will be held in the Fargo auditorium, with the exception of the illustrated lectures, for which the State Theater has been secured.

"More than 2500 people are expected to attend the various meetings this week," declares Mr. Palmer. "We always expect the auditorium to be crowded during the week of the Tri-State Grain Growers' convention and that certainly will be the case this year with the other farmer organizations holding their conventions during the same week, and the reduced fares offered by the railroads. But we anticipate no trouble in accommodations for them as there has never been any difficulty about rooming facilities in former years."

Mr. Palmer advises that the reduced ticket sale will be held at any station in the three states from January 12-16. The return limit for these tickets may be used is January twenty-first and no stop-overs are allowed.

SAYS FRAUD WAS PROVED

O'Ryan Assails Forbes' Administration of Vets Bureau

Washington, Jan. 7.—(By the A. A.)—Charles R. Forbes as director of the Veterans Bureau "was a leading actor in a fraud game," says a statement made by John F. O'Ryan, general counsel, in his report to the Veterans Committee.

"In developing this inquiry," General O'Ryan said, "has been conclusively established by the testimony of witnesses, by documentary evidence and by corroborative evidence of numerous reliable sources that fraud was proved in the bureau."

Others named were C. E. Hurley of Tacoma, Wash.; J. W. Thompson of St. Louis, contractor; the late James W. Black of Chicago and Elias H. Mortimer of Philadelphia, the chief witness against Forbes.

$12,500,000 FARM LOANS STATE TOTAL
Loans Made at the Rate of $500,000 a Month for the Last Year and a Half

Mostly Refunding
Little "New Money" Introduced Through the Farm Loans. Records Show

Farm loans to the amount of approximately $12,500,000 have been made by the Bank of North Dakota to farmers of the state since the bank was organized, according to records of the department. Of this amount of loans approximately $2,500,000 was closed by the bank when under the Nonpartisan League administration, and $10,000,000 since that time. The bank was opened in July, 1919, and continued under the League administration until December, 1921, a period of about two and a half years, and has been under its present administration slightly more than two years.

The original farm loan law authorized $10,000,000 of farm loans, but the law since has been amended and the amount enlarged, so that making of loans is expected to continue on the rate maintained by the bank for the last year of slightly more than $500,000 a month.

A total of $12,500,000 of real estate bonds have been issued, of which $900,000 have not been delivered. The farm loan department of the Bank of North Dakota has accumulated real estate mortgages about equal to $900,000, to be delivered to the state treasurer and the bonds issued. Under the low real estate bonds cannot be issued until after the loans are made and the mortgages securing the loans assigned to the state treasurer.

The farm loan department of the bank has maintained a steady average since March, 1922. For a time after the Neaton administration took hold of the bank the chief work of the farm loan department was organizing for business, since making of farm loans had been discontinued in the bank. It is expected that between $6,000,000 and $7,000,000 will be loaned to farmers through the department in 1923.

The total number of loan applications made to the department since it was organized is 8,488. Many were cancelled, withdrawn or rejected. In order to keep up a volume of business of a half million dollars a

A Successful Man

Among the notable professional men of this country who achieved great success along strictly legitimate lines was Dr. R. V. Pierce. Devoting his attention to the specialty of women's diseases, he became a recognized authority in that line.

Over fifty years ago this noted physician gave to the world a Prescription which has never been equalled for the weaknesses of women. Dr. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y., long since found out what is naturally best for women's diseases. He learned it all through treating thousands of cases. The result of his studies was a medicine called Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This medicine is made of vegetable growths that nature surely intended for backbone, headache, weakening pains, and for the many disorders common to women in all ages of life. Women who take this standard remedy know that in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription they are getting a safe woman's tonic so good that druggists everywhere sell it in both tablet and fluid form. Send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y. for trial pkg. Write for free medical advice.

MANY THRILLERS IN PLAY COMING

Elsie Helz and Roy La Rue in "The Cat and The Canary"

"The Cat and The Canary," by John Willard will come to the Auditorium one night, Friday, Jan. 11th. This is the latest of the popular thrill plays, and it is said by players who have seen it to rank with "The Bat" and "The 13th Chair." If this craze of the public for thrill plays continues some ingenious individual will be marketing a shock absorber for use in the theater. The mystery play will make it profitable. However, in "The Cat and The Canary" the author, it is said, has provided a self-starting shock absorber in the form of natural comedy—both in lines and situations. When the nerves become so tense it seems only a scream can give relief along comes a funny line or out pops a comical situation and the shriek is strangled—but there are two places in the course of the play where the audience almost invariably does shriek the warning, despite the laugh made by "shock absorbers."

AT THE MOVIES

CAPITOL
 Some of the success of a big motion picture star may usually be attributed to the fact that his or her roles have been chosen carefully in order that unusual talents will not be wasted on trivial or inappropriate roles.

Priscilla Dean has always been noted as an emotionalist. The roles she has played in Universal-Jewel productions have always been strong and full of character. The characteristic of some actresses of merely looking sweet and pretty without doing any acting has never been hers. "Outside the Law," "The Virgin of Stamboul," "Under Two Flags" and "The Flame of Life" illustrate this fact. Fans who remember these pictures that were big successes remember that their heroines were spirited creatures of human variety, not dolls or mannikins.

Miss Dean's latest emotional triumph is in "Drifting," a Universal-Jewel special now showing at the Capitol Theatre. Like all her other vehicles it gives opportunity for that superb dramatic spirit that characterizes the work of the conscientious artist and is particularly a Dean attribute.

"Drifting" was John Colton's play, produced on the New York stage by William A. Brady with Alice Brady in the featured performance. A. P. Younger and Tod Browning adapted the story to the screen and Browning directed the filming with the ability shown in "Outside the Law," and "Under Two Flags," two big Dean successes.

THE ELTINGE
 Jackie Coogan has his first real "love affair" and "leading lady" on the screen in his newest First National picture, "Circus Days," which comes to the Eltinge theater Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Jackie plays the role of Toby Tyler, a country boy who runs away from an unhappy home and gets a job selling peanuts and lemonade in the circus.

All sorts of adventures are encountered by Toby in the circus—funny, thrilling, perilous—and romantic, for there is a little girl, Jeanette, who is an equestrienne of daring personality and fearless nature.

It is Toby's unselfish efforts to aid this tiny horseback rider which results accidentally in his elevation to the position of star clown of the circus.

Peaches Jackson, a charming lass, has the honor of being Jackie's first "leading lady."

Truly, our Jackie is growing up to be quite a man!

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

PARIS R. FIELDS
Bismarck has no more public spirited citizen than Paris R. Fields, general manager of the International Harvester company, who has been transferred to Grand Forks. He has always been ready for civic service. Paris Fields was always found among the "shock troops" on the front lines in the various city-wide drives and other campaigns for the betterment of Bismarck.

A most willing worker for public spirited projects was Paris R. Fields, who is affectionately known by a host of friends in every fraternal or civic organization to which Mr. Fields belonged. In Masonic bodies he occupied the various chairs, efficiently headed the Elks lodge, served the Commercial club and afterwards the Association of Commerce as a director and in Rotary club service was an inspiration to his fellow members.

It is most fitting that the Association of Commerce tender him a testimonial for his service to the city. He served not only the city, but as head of one of Bismarck's leading industries, preached daily the advantages of this section of the state and did much in a constructive way to promote the cause of agriculture. A firm believer in diversification, his influence through the agency of the company he served has aided in pointing the way to more profitable agriculture through a varied and better balanced crop.

Citizens of Bismarck who came into intimate contact with his genial personality wish him well in his new sphere of activity.

J. C. Taylor who succeeds him as manager of the local branch is not a stranger to Bismarck. He has been here six years and has been active in promoting the best interests of Bismarck. His wide circle of friends are gratified at a well earned promotion and a continuation of his services to this section of North Dakota.

THE EASY ROAD

Hendrik Willem Van Loon took a very dry subject, history, and wrote about it so interestingly that in two years the American people have paid one and a half million dollars to read his books.

Van Loon thinks his books are popular because they are to the point instead of cluttered with a mass of words and dates. He learned to write briefly when he was a newspaper correspondent cabling news from Russia at a dollar a word. It cost so much that brevity was compulsory.

Van Loon now is a college professor. He is highly educated, a college professor. But, due to his foreign birth and training, he doesn't handle English as easily as the average American. Says he: "I have to write very simply in order to make my meaning intelligible to myself."

Twenty years ago a man would have been called crazy if he had claimed that a book of routine history could be written so it would outsell the top-notchers of fiction. History, until a few years back, was not a popular subject. Obviously, the reason for this was that history had never been written simply and attractively.

People are no hungrier for knowledge than in the past. They are reading history because it is being dished up so it can be grasped quickly and without puckering the forehead and reading sentences twice.

The same is being done with the great sciences, by such men as Prof. J. Arthur Thomson, whose "Outline of Science" is as fascinating as Jules Verne. Fabre, the Frenchman, started the epidemic of popularization of knowledge, by his books about insect life.

We'd like to see a hundred men like Van Loon, Thomson and Fabre turned loose on the job of rewriting most of the textbooks used in schools.

INDIANS HAVE A NOAH

A tribe of Indians in South America has handed down to it through many generations, a story about an ancient flood corresponding in time and magnitude to the deluge of Noah's time. So reports John Giffen Culbertson, Texas, back from visiting the tribe.

The same tradition is found in China and among nearly every other people, even in obscure places. It will please church people to learn that this particular section of the bible again is supported, even though it raises the question whether all who escaped the deluge traveled in Noah's Ark. The South American Indians, in their tradition of the great deluge, do not mention Noah's Ark. They tell the story another way—that a man and woman and two animals of every kind saved themselves from death in the waters by climbing a very high tree. This is curiously similar to the Noah's Ark story. It makes you wonder how Indians in remote South America got, in effect, the same story as the bible. Far back in the past, our continent must have been joined to Europe or Asia.

SEEKING SUBSTITUTES

Chemists are busy seeking substitutes for our vanishing forests. In a Norwegian laboratory a scientist discovered how to make artificial lumber, as hard as oak. Industrial magazine says he uses a mixture of half sawdust and half chalk and chemicals, bound together under very heavy pressure. The product cannot decay and burns only under very high temperature.

We are moving into the age of substitutes for natural resources.

PERFECT ROMANCE

Margaret Birch, 30, London school teacher, is on her way to a South Pacific island, traveling 8500 miles to marry the man she loves. The island is far out of the beaten track, so from San Francisco she travels 3000 miles by freighter, a 28-day trip.

Here are romance, faith, hope, devotion, love. Margaret's long trip is symbolic of that most important venture—marriage. There after, all other things are incidental.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

Even if Magnus Johnson did get the worst of his milking contest with the Secretary of Agriculture, he showed up well enough to qualify for a place in the Congress of the United States. For the chief business of Congress—the business from which it refuses to be diverted by "legislation" or anything else—is the milking of the cow that is ever fresh, the great American taxpayer. No Jersey or Holstein of the most antique lineage can compare with this unflinching milk-giver, always copious, always generous, and to an amazing degree uncomplaining.

The Senator protests that in the contest of strength and skill in which he was outdone by the reactionary dirt farmer who sits in Mr. Caidwell's Cabinet he worked at a disadvantage. The Senator insisted that his cow had evidently been milked "just before the contest." If it were so, it was a grievous fault; but we hope the Senator will stop to think of the implications of this fact before he gets into full swing in his official career. The Sacred Cow whose milking is the principal business of Congress has been milked already; the great contest between Democrats and anti-Mellon Republicans must be hampered, to some extent, by the fact that the placid creature shows some signs of going dry. The most horrid of us is tired of paying taxes for a Government which, whatever its absolute value may be, almost certainly costs more than it is worth.

Mr. Mellon has promised to turn us out to pasture if Congress will let him. Before eminent Senators and Representatives insist on stripping us of the last quart, let them pause and think that even a cow turns now and then, and that the case of Mrs. O'Leary's domestic pet is a reminder that kicking against the pricks may entail a considerable disaster.—New York Times.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

As Daddy Gander said afterwards, he could easily believe his own eyes. For there in the kitchen cupboard stood every pumpkin pie that Peter Peter had made, and every mince and apple and lemon pie that Misses John had made, and the extra big one that the Bakerman had made and marked with J, and all the cookies and cakes and loaves and everything. Right in the house that Jack built!

The Sandman stood looking, and so did the Twins and Daddy Gander, not one of them able to believe his eyes. For as truly as I tell you, not half an hour before the cupboard had been empty as a refrigerator on Sunday night.

"I must be losing either my senses or my sight," snapped Daddy Gander. "Well," said the Sandman, "I'll be losing my job, if I don't get these people awake and home to bed where I can put them to sleep properly. Whoever would have thought of my sand bag opening up that way, and all that sand flying over here?" And he looked at Misses John, Jack's mother, sound asleep against the kitchen sink. How happy she would have been to know that all her pies were safe!

"Don't you know any magic way of waking people up?" asked Daddy Gander. "No, I don't," declared the Sandman helplessly. "If only Mother Goose doesn't come home before we get everything straightened out," sighed Daddy. "It was Nancy who had an idea. Her little brain had been thinking and thinking. 'Say, Mister Sandman, if we get the sleepy sand out of everybody's eyes, wouldn't that waken them?'"

"You're just right it would, young lady, but how?" asked the Sandman. "If Daddy Gander takes his magic question—you know how you do it, Daddy Gander. If dust or sand comes anywhere near your dustpan, it flies right to it and sticks. Couldn't you wave it around and get all the sleepy sand out of everybody's eyes?" "Well, I declare!" cried Daddy Gander. "Of course I can! Funny I didn't think of it before. Here! Where did I leave that dustpan of mine? Oh, there it is!"

And without another word he waved it around and said a charm and everybody woke up with a jump. The first thing Misses John saw was the sun. "Good lands! Where did they come from?" she cried.

At that minute Nick came up the cellar stairs two at a time. "That isn't a cupboard you put the pies and cakes into, mother," he said. "It was the dumb-waiter that goes up and down to the cellar. They were so heavy they made it go down and you only saw the empty shelves. And when I fell asleep in the cellar I must have bumped it and made it come up again!"

So the party ended just right. And when they were all home again, the Sandman put them to sleep in the proper style. Then away he went in his cloud boat up to the sky where he lived.

TO CONTINUE DURUM UNITS AT N. D. MILL

Will Improve Quality of Semolina Manufacturer, Conclusion of Mill Board
REPORT IS MADE

Grand Forks, Jan. 8.—Installation of additional purifying equipment to raise the quality of the semolina manufactured by durum unit at the North Dakota state mill is recommended in a report made by the committee of the board of managers named to investigate the situation and the board has authorized the desired changes as soon as funds for the purpose are available. G. L. Ireland, president, announced.

The report of the committee, which was accepted by the board, shows that the proposed changes can be made at a cost of approximately $5,000. The committee was appointed at the request of C. E. Austin, manager of the mill and elevator, and consisted of Dr. E. N. Hegge and J. F. McGrann. Its report covering the durum unit situation in general was submitted at a special meeting of the board which closed Friday, and is as follows:

Report of Committee

To the Board of Managers:
Your committee, appointed to investigate the advisability of continuing the durum unit of the state mill, or changing the same into a hard spring wheat unit, report as follows:

We understand that this unit was installed with the expectation that a more profitable market for durum wheat would be created for the farmers of this state, who grow this grain extensively. It appears to us that this result has, in a measure, been accomplished, and that the more favorable market has perhaps caused a larger acreage of durum. The mill has manufactured 104,550 barrels of macaroni products, using 455,847 bushels of durum wheat since August 1st, 1923. Previous to August 1st, 1923, while it may be said that the mill was in the experimental stage, the production was 11,000 barrels. This total of 115,550 barrels would in the opinion of the committee, seem to justify the conclusion at which we have arrived. The committee believes that this macaroni unit has not shown a profit. Some of the reasons for this are as follows: The durum wheat that has been used was grown in the territory in the state which produces the highest grade of this class of grain, and cost a premium of from eight to twelve cents per bushel over current market prices. The manufactured product was sold in competition with that of other well established mills, who had a regular trade and patronage, and who were not obliged to pay as high prices for the wheat that they used. This disadvantage can be overcome to some extent by more favorable transit regulations and charges on the part of the railroads.

Selling Difficult

Definite and efficient methods and channels for selling the manufactured products have not as yet been established. The so-called macaroni factories are located in the larger cities a considerable distance from this mill. It has been difficult to compete directly with these other mills on account of their proximity to markets, and most of the products of this mill have been shipped on consignment to commission houses and brokers. The result has been that goods have been carried in storage for long periods, and when sold were disposed of upon uncertain and frequently unfavorable markets at the best prices obtainable. This method of business requires the payment of heavy brokerage and handling charges, and ties up large amounts of money in stock carried which should be available for ordinary working capital.

Foreign Sales

A considerable amount of these macaroni products has been shipped to foreign markets, and these goods have not all been disposed of. It is the opinion of the committee that there will be a heavy shrinkage and loss on this foreign business when the goods are finally disposed of. We believe that it is foreign business should be kept down to the lowest possible minimum, and that shipments to foreign markets should only be made when it appears urgent or necessary to reduce an unwarranted amount of stock at the mill.

Quality Question

Because of the lack of proper equipment, the manufactured product has proved unsatisfactory and difficult to sell. We find reports from selling agents reading as follows:

"When they were in the market (referring to Semolina buyers) we submitted your samples of Semolina and quotations at that time, but your quality was so poor compared to the other samples that we were outbid."

"Our products are inferior because not properly purified."

Additional Machinery

This situation is without justification and injures the reputation of the mill. The superior grade of durum should, and if the mill were properly equipped, would mean a superior manufactured product, and one that ought to sell more readily than the products of other plants. Our product should be equal at least in sample and better in quality to that of competitors. This would mean a greater demand and higher price. To remedy this evil additional purifiers should be installed which would cost approximately $5,000. This machinery should have been provided in the first instance. It is necessary to improve the grade of the manufactured products, as well as to increase the percentage of Semolina, which we consider essential if this department of the business is to yield a profit. Should it later be decided to change this unit into a hard spring wheat unit this machinery would not have to be discarded; it is standard type, and would be necessary and suitable for manufacturing the hard wheat into flour.

Continue Milling

If the board should be of the opinion that the manufacture of durum wheat should be continued, and your committee believes that this should be done for the present, then we further recommend that the necessary new equipment referred to in this report be installed in time for fall deliveries for 1924. That European markets be resorted to only when it becomes necessary to reduce unwarranted accumulation of surplus stock at the mill. That every effort be made to secure more favorable transit rates from the railroads in the state on durum grain shipped to the mill, and on the manufactured products to markets. That every effort be made to build up and establish domestic markets for the output of the mill, to the end that a regular patronage and customers shall be procured, and thus eliminate the evils of the present marketing methods.

SEPARATION OF ACCOUNTS IS DIRECTED

Water Works Department and City Business Proper to be Kept Separate

The city commission, in meeting last night, passed a resolution providing for entire separation of accounts of the water department of the city and the city business proper. The resolution also provided that all records of the water department shall be preserved in the office of A. J. Arnot business manager; that on the first day of each month the business manager shall transmit a report of receipts and disbursements for the past month to the city auditor, and that all bills of the water department shall first be approved by the water department and then by the city commission.

A study is now being made by city engineers with a view of determining, if possible, just about what may be expected of the water department as a revenue producer in the next year.

Work on the filtration plant was to be resumed today with the placing of the roof on it. Some of the equipment to be placed by the McFarland Engineering company of Kansas City, contractors for installing filter equipment, has arrived. It is likely, however, that not a great deal of work will be done the next two months, but that first installation of all equipment will begin in March.

The commission last night received the report of the city bacteriologist, who reported no marked change in the quality of water and found an entire absence of bacillus coli, indicating the water was disease-free. Milk samples taken in the city were reported up to standard.

SAYS COULTER PLAN WOULD AID COUNTY

Many Farmers Could Get Livestock Loans, Is Claim of Body Backing Bill

United States census figures for Burleigh county show that many farmers here could benefit from the passage of the $50,000,000 livestock loan bill now pending in Congress, according to a statement from the organization supporting the measure.

This measure provides that loans may be made up to $10,000 to worthy farmers in the wheat area who wish to diversify but are hampered by lack of capital. Money loaned would be used for the purchase of dairy and beef cattle, sheep, hogs and poultry.

The only security required would be the good intentions of the farmer, the livestock purchased with the money, and the increase therefrom.

Loans would be made to those who had no livestock and desired to make a start, those who have scrub stock which they would like to replace with higher grade animals that would return a profit, and those who have good livestock but are under-equipped.

Figures from the 1920 census show that of the 1375 farms in this county, 369 do not have dairy cattle; 373 have no sows; 502 no beef cattle; 1343 no sheep and 140 no poultry.

One of the most important purposes of the proposed measure is to furnish farmers with these different classes of livestock so that they will be able to produce a larger proportion of the food necessary for home consumption. Records of individual farmers show that the average cost of food consumed on the farm in North Dakota is $804. Farmers who are producing their own milk, butter, poultry, garden truck, beef, mutton and pork are able to save a large part of this sum. A surplus to market, provides a steady income throughout the year. The census figures show that many Burleigh county farms are under-equipped.

The average number of head of breeding stock for those farms reporting stock were: 9 dairy cows; 6 beef cows; 2 sows; and 12 ewes. Number of poultry per flock averaged only 63.

Chicago, Jan. 8.—Selling here against buying in the Northwest eased the wheat market today during the latter dealings. The close was unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 1-4 cents lower, May 1.08 1-2 to 1.08 5-8, July 1.06 5-8 to 1-4 cents.

WHEAT KEEPS TO TYPE, IS EXPERT VIEW

Does Not Degenerate, or Run out, Conclusion of L. R. Waldron

Fargo, N. D., Jan. 8.—Wheat does not degenerate, revert to type or run out. This is the conclusion reached by L. R. Waldron, plant breeder at the North Dakota Agricultural college, after a detailed study of wheat breeding. Mr. Waldron's studies show that the variety of wheat which is pure maintains a remarkably stable and unchanged condition for very long periods of time. This applies only to the germinal constitution or heredity of the variety as regular conditions, such as weather, soil and even plant diseases have practically no effect upon the heredity of the wheat variety, experiments prove.

"As far as is known," Mr. Waldron stated "degeneration, regression, reversion to type or anything similar, does not occur because of continuous cropping, plant diseases, or climatic conditions. If external conditions do influence the variety, it is only a temporary matter, for as soon as the variety is grown away from the influence of injurious conditions, it immediately assumes its normal and original character."

Variety of wheat, Mr. Waldron points out, is usually made up of one or more pure-breeding strains. Power Five wheat, for instance, is an individual pure-breeding strain, which keeps on thus from year to year essentially unchanged. This holds true so far as the constitution or "blood" of the variety is concerned. Marquis wheat, which originated not many years ago from a cross between quite unlike parents, may be considered a very uniform, pure-breeding unit, which so far as its heredity is concerned, is the same from year to year. Any variations that might arise in Marquis variety would hardly be of much economic importance, thinks Mr. Waldron.

"It is possible, however, for variations of two kinds to creep into a wheat variety. Not considering mechanical mixtures from other varieties. One change of this kind is called a mutation, and very rarely occurs. The other change arises by an occasional cross-fertilization, also rarely occurring. These two changes within a variety may be considered of little economic importance, however.

Mr. Waldron points out that in self-fertilizing varieties, a sharp distinction must be made between self-fertilized varieties, such as wheat, oats, rye, peas and beans, on the one hand, and open-fertilized varieties, such as corn and alfalfa, on the other. In the first group, particularly wheat, a variety is usually made up of one or more pure breeding strains.

Soil, weather, and plant diseases do not affect the heredity or pure strains of a wheat variety, although these external conditions do affect the wheat crop.

With wheat, two important points, yield and quality, require special notice. A variety yields the best on fertile soil with good weather conditions and with absence of disease. A poor yield because of poor soil or weather does not decrease the yield for the year following except that if the kernel is "pinched" by hot weather the young embryo plant may not start so vigorously as if the kernel were plump. A disease such as "scab" or "black chaff" affecting a wheat crop one year may decrease the yield the year following due to the disease germs being carried on the inside or outside of the wheat kernel. If the disease is carried by spores internally, seed treatment may not be effective, but even in this case it is improper to say that the wheat variety has been affected in any degree in a manner to change its nature permanently.

FORGE BLOWER USED IN RESCUE

New England, N. D., Jan. 8.—Unconscious for at least four hours at the bottom of a 43 foot well and then revived by fresh air forced through a string of piping by a blacksmith's forge blower was the experience of Eric N. Erickson, well driller here. Erickson had finished digging a well at the George DeWalt farm and went into the well at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon to clean it out. He reached the bottom and shouted "alright" but a short time later when DeWalt, alone on his farm, called to him, Erickson failed to answer.

DeWalt lowered a lantern at the end of a cord and the flame was extinguished by gas.

Neighbors were summoned and help asked from New England. John Matthews, local blacksmith, rushed to the farm with a load of piping and a forge blower. Fresh air was pumped down to Erickson who eventually revived sufficiently to tie a rope lowered to him about his body and be raised to the surface after five hours in the well.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed as

RECORD MADE IN JACK RABBIT HUNT

Hunting jack rabbits has proved great sport for New Englanders. The community has established what is claimed to be a world's record—7,250 rabbits in one hunt.

The pictures above show enormous piles of jack rabbits slain by the hunters. The hunt was conducted by the Town Crier's club. A team of 80 hunters captured by T. L. Stan-bye won a silver loving cup by bringing in about 500 more rabbits than a similar team headed by Herman Zachow.

The primary purpose of the hunt was to reduce the ravages to forage crop caused by rabbits. It is stated that one rabbit eats up about 100 pounds of forage in a year. Consequently the hunt, it is estimated, saved about 350 tons of forage crops.

Fifth and Biggest Hunt
The event was the fifth rabbit hunt to be held in New England territory. The previous record hunt was in 1917 when 1430 rabbits were killed, there being 80 hunters on a side on that occasion also. In this year's hunt many rabbits were shot by the light of auto headlights.

The total weight of the rabbits killed was about 25 tons. It is estimated that more than $1,000 worth of ammunition was used.

With freight rates high and no market for the rabbits, the committee in charge could find no place to ship them. However, they were hauled out by the wagon load by farmers to feed to their chickens and hogs.

The hunt was followed by a big community banquet, attended by nearly 350 people and served by the women of the St. Mary's Altar guild. Then came community singing and sports covering methods and experiences of the hunters, diversification, North Dakota resources, and community co-operation and good will.

SENATE O. K.'S INQUIRY INTO SPECULATIONS

Adopts Ladd Resolution Directing Report From Secretary of Agriculture

Washington, Jan. 8. (By the A. P.) The first action at this session of Congress to aid the farmers was taken today by the Senate when it adopted the Ladd resolution regarding wheat speculators. The measure directs Sec. Wallace to publish findings of the grain futures administration as to position on the wheat market taken by "the well known professional speculators and the members of the large 'future commission' houses of the Chicago Board of Trade."

Meanwhile both senate and house agricultural committees heard representatives of farm organizations on the Morris-Sinclair bill for creation of a $100,000,000 government corporation to purchase and sell farm supplies with a view to increasing and stabilizing prices.

An export corporation to dispose of surplus crops was urged in the house by Rep. Leavitt, Republican of Montana, in discussing farming conditions in the Northwest.

Wheat farmers have been and are losing their farms or suffering setbacks hardly less severe, he said because of a decline in the price of their products while a comparatively high level has been maintained in prices of commodities they must buy.
